* These two websites are taught to be "accurate and reliable" while admitting that the information is written by teens. Both of these websites reference each-other as reliable resources. Scarleteen.com is especially unreliable and can promote dangerous practices to teens. It has articles such as "Well, F*ck Me" which comes with a "Guide to getting it on with: (student's are told to insert their name here)." Another article is titled "I want more Kink, but I don't know how to ask a partner for it." There are articles talking about the choking method, what to do if your parents are too religious, and so on. Here are the links to just the two articles mentioned...*
